REMEMBER THE FALLEN

ANZAC DAY – Tuesday 25th April 2017

Australia's national day of remembrance is a time to stop and reflect on the sacrifices made in the name of freedom and peace.

On ANZAC Day, we can honour the memory of our military's men and women, from all wars and conflicts, whose efforts have secured the future of this country, that we know today. We remember not only the first ANZACS but all those in wars and conflicts before and since the Great War of 1914 – 1918.

The price of peace truly is eternal vigilance.
